

AMS REVIEW

The Academy of Marketing Science is pleased to introduce its new theory journal, the AMS Review. The AMS Review publishes thoughtful contributions that offer insights and perspectives extending knowledge and understanding of marketing-related phenomena. The Review is receptive to different philosophical perspectives and levels of analysis that range from micro to macro. Especially welcome are manuscripts that integrate research and theory from non-marketing disciplines such as management, sociology, economics, psychology, geography, anthropology, or other behavioral sciences. Examples of suitable manuscripts include those incorporating conceptual and organizing frameworks or models, those extending, comparing, or critically evaluating existing theories, and those suggesting new or innovative theories. Comprehensive and integrative quantitative syntheses of research literatures (i.e., meta-analyses) are appropriate. Manuscripts that focus on descriptive literature surveys, proselytize research methods or techniques, or report findings from original empirical research will not be considered for publication in the Review. Similarly, the Review will not publish manuscripts focusing on practitioner advice or marketing education.

Members of the Academy receive the Journal at no additional cost beyond annual membership dues, and it is available to non-members, corporate sponsors, and libraries by subscription.
